

Who Am I?

series overview

Our identity is something we maybe don't think about often, but it informs everything about us. At the most basic level, our identity is how we answer the question "Who Am I?" There are all kinds of things that we often think answer this question for us, but don't go deep enough. Things like sports, academics, our friends, our style, who we are and aren't attracted to, our faith, or our past/present/future may tell us interests and inform our personality, but they don't define who we are. God has so much to say about how we answer this question because He created us. Our Identity is rooted in our Creator. It can't be changed and can't be taken from us.
